

The New Jersey "Do Not Call" list is an effective tool in the state's fight against telemarketers. While I understand its standards to be more stringent than the FCC's, there is absolutely no reason why it should be overturned. Citizens want telemarketers off our backs, out of our lives, and off our phone lines. I urge you to leave the New Jersey guidelines alone.